WEGNESDAY OCTOBER 31.

WAGES IN AMERICA AND IRE LAND.

Mr. William Barbour, of Paterson New Jersey, has contributed some information on the subject of wages in the United States and in Ireland which should satisfy every workingman as to the alvantages of pro set on. Tab conover 100 years ago, in Lieburn, Ireland, and from there the foreign trade was an, plied. The adoption of the protective policy induced the firm to build a factory in New Jersey to supply this market. For forty years the Irish mills supplied the German trade, but since Garmany has adopted the protective policy the firm has been necessitated to build a factory in that country. The number of hands employed in the Paterson fac ones range between 1,500 and 1,800. Comparing the wages paid in the Uni'ed States and Ireland, Mr. Barbour says: "Two years ago I made a careful comparison of the wages paid in our Paterson and Lusburn factories. In the former we had at that time 1,500 hands, and in the latter 2800. Now, in two weeks these 2,800 operatives in Ireland drew only $500 more pay ther the 1,500 operatives in Patterson drew. Of these 2,800 and more operatives in Ireland there is not one that owns the house he in. But in Paterson bought and paid for nice comfortable he mes. The Paterson employee all came from Ireland originally, so you can see how much better off they are here than they were there. I never had one ask me to let him return to Ireland and work in that factory, but every time I go to Lieburn the operatives come in crowds and beg for a chance to come over here."

The relative condition of the workingmen in Laterson, and Lieburn, Ireland, will hold good between other cities' in the United States and in Europe. Some time ago, the chief of prince of Lordon, went to Leeds to examine into of the working people there, and when he thought of how many English workingmen had come to the United States and bought homes with the wages they esined under protection, he remarked with wonderment, that not in all Leeds, with its 325,000 inhabitants, was there a wageworker who owned his own home. It is important that all workingmen should think of these things.

TAX FOREIGN PRODUCTS.

Why shouldn't this country tax the foreign product? Can any democratic revenue reformer tell wherein it is better for the American people to tax their products than to tax some one else's? The republican protective tariff thinks a good deal more of men than it does of merchandies. There isn't a market in the world like our own great American market. Before we talk of foreign markets let's possess our own markets. We have't them yet. We imported last year $750,000,000 worth of foreign products, among them $50,000,00 worth of iron and American workmen, if produced as home, 300 days work for 35,600 men. Let's ge

It has been claimed that all the Germans of New York city, with here and there an exception, were for Cleveland and opposed to Harrison. The New York World sent its reporters Friday into the German portions of the city and asked 411 of them how they intended to vote. They were genuine citizens, who were neither ashamed of their names nor their opinious. The east side of town was well canvassed, and up-town, too, for there were Germans to be found everywhere, and how they said they would vote is shown in the subjoined summary:

our own markets first.

In this list twenty-one Termans who voted for Cleveland four years ago are now for Harrison. And of the first voters. too, Harrison gets about as macy as Oleveland. We had no idea that as many as one-third of the Germans of New York were for Harrison-having supposed the number not to exceed 10 or 15 per

After all, the question which stands almost supreme in this campaign as it did in 1880, is that of the gross election frauds in the south. The disfranchisement of tens of thousands of republicans in the south is a disgrace to our civilization. But when republican rapers and republican orators begin to plead for an honest election and a fair count, then the democrats reinforced by the magwamps, begin to ory "bloody-sbirt". It is excusing the frauds and justifying the suppression of the oglored vote. The best representative of the balk on in politica we have seen, is the democratic candidate for congress.

Edward N. Dickerson, of New York, a nephew of the late Mahlon Dickerson, cern which he regressits was founded | who was for many years United States senator from New Jersey and also a member of Jackson's and Van Buren's cabinets, has written a long letter in which he say: . "I am and always have been a democrat, as my angestors were; but both they and I always believed in a protective tariff as distinguished from a tariff for mere revenue. Upon thatissue, while I claim to be a democrat, I shall vote for Harrison against the solid south. I do not think I am any less a democrat for so believing and acting than I was when as a 'war democrat'. I supported Mr. Luncoln's administration, whose whole business was killing democrats to save the union.

The portraits will hang to gether with none others near them, on one of the walls of the mess building at West Point, that Mr. Childs had named "Grant halt."

According to a New York correspondent the Western man is looming up on the horizon of the New York woman in a most astonishing way. " He is just beginning," he writes, "to take his place here in social life, and he takes an awfully big place. He takes away the breath of the Eastern girl by his self-confident methods, and by the time she recovers it she very often finds that it is in reality her heart that is gone."

A collaction of postage stamps recently exhibited in Boston is said to be worth nearly $100,000. There were in the collection single stamps valued at $100 each, and several groups of six were placed at $1,000.

That the prices were not all fancy was shown by the offer of $30 from a dealer for a blue envelope on which was a small stamp marked Bromen. One group, consisting of four Government stamped envelopes, now obsolete, was appraised at $400.

A REPORTER of the Philadelphia Record, who was anxious to know how far the expressed desire of Mrs. Cleveland in regard to the abandonment of the bustle had been observed in that city, took up a position on the corner of two of the most important thoroughfares, the other day, and noted results as follows in one hour: No bustle, 24; bushel-sized bustle, 18; mederate-sized bustle, 37; small-sized bustle, 62; couldn't toll whether it was bustle or not, 64.

BLAINE AT ALBANY. ALEANY, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Mr. Blaine ad-dressed an lumense meeting at the fair ground midway between this city and Troy Tuesday afternoon. He was pale and evidently not recovered from his recent illness but spoke distinctly and vigorous-by. He said he was unfitted to make his hearers such an address as he would like to, however, he would remind them that it there rested a responsibility upon any Re-publican it lay ten-fold upon a Republican in the Empire State, and if the Republica voters came to the pells next Tuesday is spite of wind and weather, the success of their National taket was insured.

Mr. Biaine then had read, by a gentle man in the stand, an article from the Lor don Morning Post, hitherto a pronounce free-trade organ in England. The clippin says:

"We are constantly told protestion raise "We are constantly told protection raises the cost of commodities; that a hostile tariff-as Mr. John Bright said but a few days back in a published letter to one of his correspondents—is only a tax which the community pays its support the particular industry benofited by it. As a matter of fact what do we find in America? Why, their manufacturers-can actually beat us out of the field on the score of more chapmess only. So far from protection enhancing the cost of their goods, they can turn them out at rates with which we with all our free trads can not manage to compete. With the exception of made-up clothing, which is dear because labor is high, and not because the duty on stiffs is salicative. heavy, there is not a single manufactures article produced in the United States, from carpets to cotton, from locomolives to stee axes, from agricultural implements to cutter and 'yankee notions,' as many little domestic appliances are called, which is not as chong or even cheaper there than in this country."

Mr. Blaine then said that the above was a most effectual contradiction of the claim of the free-trade craters that the people of the United Statos were ground down by high prices. He repeated what he said in his first speech in the campaign, that protection was not for capital, it was for labor: it is not for the benefit of the rich man, but for the interest of the wago carnor, and if it is lost, it is lost to the hur of every man in the United States who carns his bread by the sweat of his brow. Mr. Blaine's speech was made in the afternoon, before the news of the President's action in the Sackville affair had been received, and, referring to the matter, the speaker said he would predict that the United States were ground down by ter, the speaker said he would predict that neither President Cleveland or Secretary Bayard would dore to send Lord Sackville persuading Salisbury to recall the blun-dering minister. Mr. Bluine said: "No Ropublican Administration over had the intervention of the British Minister, and nover will. No advocate of protection in this coun-try ever had the sympathy of the British Minity ever hind mover will (applicate). The American doctrine of protection upheld by the Republican party finds no support at the hand of English Ministers, and what we contend is that self respect is the first law of nations, as it is of men, and that while England would it is of men, and that walls England would resent to the last degree may intervention in her domestic affairs by an American Minister, so should we resent the least intervention in our domestic affairs by a British binister. As long as he is a British Minister he is cutilled to the entire respect of the whole American people. Diplomatic respect is the first law of all intercourse between nuties, and it is entired to every protection and correct. The is entitled to every protection and respect, but he is not entitled to the right of intervening in our domestic affairs, and if the people want to resent it, they can resent it one week from to-day, and they can resent it one week from to-day, and they can resent it has very simple way [apprause.] and cries of "We will."] They can resent it by yoting for Benjamin Harrison for President. [Grout cheering.] They can resent it by voting for protection for American manufacture. They can resent it by restoring to power that great party with whose existence the presperity of the United States for twenty-four-years was identified—the Republican party-which in peace and in war has held high the board of the country under all oircumstaness." Mr. Blaine referred to what he called "the sickly sneer" of the Democratic party aimed at General Harrison when they called him the "grandson of his grandfather." He said General Harrison stands, if any man ever stood, upon his own merits, and it did not detract from those uprits because their possessor came of good stock. He has a lineage of which any noble house in England might be proud. It is a lineage not of noblity, but of patriotism, and there was not on among those who sneered at him but what would give his evolids to possess his lineage. Mr. Blaine was upreariously ap-plauded at the cenclusion of his remarks, and returned to New York at once. THURMAN AT WHEELING.

Wheelino, W. Va., Oct. 31.—On Tuesday about 50,000 Demograts from various place in this section of the State, Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania attended the mass-meeting in this city. There were parados in the afternoon and evening, about 6,000 marchers participating in onch. Addresses were made at sev-eral points in the city in the afternoon, among the speakers being Hon. John Bookwalter and General Warner, of Ohio, and Sonators Camden and Faulkner, of this State. Judge Thurman in the attornoon reviewed the parade and received a lost of visitors at his hotel. At night he spoke to an immense audience at the rink for nearly an hour, being frequently and heartily applauded. A synopsis of his address is as follows:

A synopsis of his address is as follows:

his address is as manufacturers and the laboring man of Wheeling, or anywhere elso, but he would say that the men who made the wealth of this country were entitled to a fair reward for their labor. Mr. Thurman then reviewed the action of the House and Senate and the President on the Chinese question, the tariff bills, the fisheries trenty and other legislation, and referred also to the Murchison-West correspondence.

occetary Bayard's Letter to the Executive—How the Offending Official Received the News—Bitter Comment from London.

HIS DISMISSAL BY THE PRESIDENT.

GOT THE BOUNCE. Washington, Oct. 31.—By direction of the President the Secretary of State has informed Lord Sackville that for causes heretofore made known to her Majesty's Government his continuance in his present official position in the United States is no longer acceptable to this Government, and would consequently be detrimental to the relations between the two countries. The remains octiveen and two continues. The grounds of this action on the part of the United States are stated in a report of the Secretary of State to the President dated the 29th inst., which is as follows:

"DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 1888.—To the Presideat: The undersigned has the honor to submit to your consideration the following statement, with a view to receive your direction thereon; On the 4th of September 18, and the presideat of the state of the following statement, with a view to receive your direction thereon; On the 4th of September 18, and the proporting to be writted by one Charles F. Marchison, dated at Pomona, Cul., was sent from that place to the British Ministor at this capital, in which the writer solicited an expression of his views in regard to certain cusettled diplomatic guestions between the United States and Great Britain, stating at the same time that such an expression was sought by him for the purpose of determining his vote at the approaching Presidential election. He stated that he was a naturalized citizen of the United States, of English birth, but that he still considered England the mother-head, and that this fact led him to seek advice from the British representative in this country. He further stated that the information he sought was not for himself alone, but to cashe him to give certain assurances to many other persona in the summe situation as himself, for the United States of English birth, but who still rogard their original obligations as paramount. The letter also contained gross reflections upon the conduct of this Covernment in respect to questions now in controversy and unsectified between the United States and Great Britain, and both directly and indirectly imputed insiderently in such conduct.

"To this letter the British Minister at once replied from Boverly. Mass., under date of September 18. In this reply he stated that 'Any political parity which openly favored the mother country at the present moment would loss popularity, and that the parity in power is fully warro of that fact; and that in respect to the 'questions that fact; and that in respect to the 'question as regards the Presidential citizs and the Covernment is in southle and proposed th and said that any intrinsic as to communications with the State Department should be sought for there; that it seemed to be the news-distributing center. Lord Sackville was much averse to discussing the subject. For a long time he resulted to be interviewed, although the legs fused to be interviewed, although the legs.

tion was besieged by correspondents of all the principal papers in the country. He finally admitted one or two correspondents and consented to answer one or two questions. He said he had read Secretary Bayard's letter to the President, and was familiar with its contents. He disagreed with the Secretary in his contents. Carellagous Carellago

"As botween this country and Great British there can be accontraversy as to the complete severance of the ties of ofiginal allegiance by maturalization. Disputes on this point were finally put at rest by the treaty of naturalization concluded botween the two countries on May 13, 1870. Therefore it will not be contended, nor was such contention ever admitted by us, that citizons of the United States of British origin are subject to any claim of the country of their original allegiance.

"The undersigned also has the honor to call attention to the previsions of section 533 of the revised statutes of the United States, by which sover-pondities are visited upon the citizous, of the United States who, without the authority or permission of this Government 'commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agant thereot,' either with an intent to influence the action of such government or its agents is relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or with an intent to defeat the measures of the Government of the United States.' Those penaltics are made applicable to overy citizen of the United States or assists in any such correspondence, with similar unitarial intent. The undersigned respectfully advises that the attention of the Atternaty-General of the United States be directed to those enactments, in order that an investigation may be made with a view to ascertait whether they have not been violated in the present case by the correspondent of the British Minister.

"By your direction the attention of the British Rovernment has in a spirit of comity been enaled to the conduct of its Minister as above described; but without result. It therefore becomes necessary for this Government to consider whether as the guardian of the movement of the present and of the original and the representation. It is a settled rule, essential to the maintenance of international interceurse, that a diplomatic representative must be persona order

The Standard, in conclusion, observes that the opinion in England will distinguish what President Cleveland has done

Ponona, Cal. Oct. 31. — The National Democratic Committee has telegraphed Postmaster Stein and J. A. Clark, of this place, to offer in the name of the committee a reward of $1,000 for the name of the author of the Murchison letter, and to spend another $1,000 for detectives and means to apprehend the authors. Several Republicans/hero who positively know who the man signing himself as Murchison is. the man signing himself as Murchison is, say he lives here, walks the streets every day, and that neither Patrick Egan or any non-resident whatseever had any thing to familiar with its contents. He disagreed with the Secretary in his conclusions, especially regarding the obligations of American citizens of English birth. The action of the Government was arbitrary and the argument of the Secretary illogical. A response by the home Government to the demand of the United States would come by radi, and it had not had an opportunity to cross the water. Further than this, Lord Sackville refused to comment on the action of the Government. the action of the Government.

"No, no, positively no. All statement to that effect are absolutely and unqualifiedly untrue. We forwarded to the British Government through our representative at the Court of St. James all the facts in the case. The President waited what he considered to be a sufficient length of time before he resolved upon deficit action, and finding that the British Government was apparently doing nothing in the matter, he decided, in view of the emergency, to do what has been done to-day."

tration throughout this controversy, said that the action of the Fresident was what the people had a right to expect of him-The fault of Lord Sackville was the more pronounced, because he had been a member of the commission which negotiated the fisheries treaty. Certainly, Senator Morgan, said, Lord Sackville would not question the carnestness and sincerity of the President now in resenting an indignity. Senator Morgan, when asked what effect this would have upon our relations with Bogland and how that country would regard the sammary faction of the President, said that he did not knew and he did not care. I do not know what steps England will take in this matter, but I can sure every American citizen will be compelled to admit that the Administration has taken hit that the Administration has taken in the enly course open to it. Politics has had mothing whatever to do with it. It is a question of insult to the President and to this country which he has promptly and in a proper manner rebuikted. Mr. West has written a letter that he had no business to write, and has given interviews to the president of this country. He could hardly expect any other action than that taken by the President."

ward the President's notification to his home Government, and that in due course he would receive leave of absence for an indefinite period. No further action would be taken by this Government, whether the Minister continued to live in Washington or not. The old-time custom of twenty-four hours notice to quit the country has been abundoned.

The trecords of the State Department show that Lord Sackvillo's case is quite analogous to that of Sir John Crampton, the representative of England at Washington in 1836. He violated the international law of neutrality by seeking recruits for the British army in the Crimea. The facts were laid before the British Government and Sir John notified that his conduct was displeasing to the United States. His withdrawal ensued.

London, Oct. 31.—It is stated in Bir-mingham that Mr. Chamberlain has pri-vately expressed his great surprise and regret at the asinine conduct of Lord Sackville. When in Washington Mr. Chamberlain is reported to have said he formed the conviction that the British Min-ister was one of the most courteous, con-siderate and astute gentlemen in the diplomatic service, and is now totally at a loss to account for his injudicious action. The officials at the Foreign Office are reticent as to the presumed action of the Fremier in the matter, but unbesitatingly ridicule the report that Lord Sackville will be suc-

MONTHEAL, Can., Oct. 31.—The action of President Cleveland in dismissing Lord Sackville from Washington was received as proof of the report that Sir Charles Tupper would be Lord Sackville's successor. It has been ascertained that dispatches were received here during Saturday and Sunday asking the Dominion Government's choice for High Commissioner for Canada in London, the post now held by Sir Charles. This indicated that the latter was going to be promoted. Sir John Macdonald refuses to admit that he has any information regarding the matter. TIERRA DEL FUEGO. Conflicting Reports Concerning This Com-paratively Unknown Country.

Conflicting Reports Contenting 1275 Candicting Reports Contenting 1275 Candicting Country.

The group of islands which form the archipologo of Tidfra del Fuego have an area of about $0.000 square miles, nearly the same size as England and Scotland. Durwin describes the country as "a mountainous land, partly submerged in the sea, so deep that inlets and bays occupy the place where the valloys should exist. To find an acreof level land in any part of the country is most rare." Don Ramon Lista, however, who has had greater, and more recent opportunities of investigation, thinks this description a mistaken one. As reported in Tierra del Fuego as presenting two aspects. are navigable; this region enjoying as ichanges and extended forests appear, where the grass is not as abundant or the rivers so large. The face of the land is in this part something like Switzerland, with small lakes, clevated mounties are liakes, elevated mountains and valuable timber forests. Mr. Brydges, whose long residence in the country enables him to speak with authority on this point, assures us that there are two separate and distinct tribes dwelling in Tierra del Fuego. He calls them, as they call themselves, Onas and Yaligaus; the former living in the North and the latter in the South. The Onas seem to be almost identical in character, manner and language with the Tuchelche Indians of Patagonia. Like them, they use bows and arrows in the chase and are muscular, active and well formed. Their number is now much reduced, an epidemic of measles having reduced, an epidemic of measles having been very fatal among them a few years ago, and the whole tribe probably dees not now number more than five hundred per-sons. They are nomadic and live principally in portable tents, covered with granaco skins. Mr. Popper did not form a high opinion of their intellectual faculties, judg-ing from the primitive nature of their implements He describes their tools as consisting for the most part of pieces of iron taken from some vessel sast on shore, and tied to pieces of wood by leather thougs They have no cances and do not fish, though they pick up on the shore such fish as are left behind after heavy tides. Their only water vessels are large shells, but they dis play some ingenuity in making arrows and

A Reminiscence of Gambling in the Days Before the War.

For yours gambling on the Mississippi has been a theme written upon and read with interest, says the Chicago Journal. How the ideal planter got through with his patrimony; how sixty or seventy bales of cotton or lifteen colored people changed hands in a few hours; but the gambler is al-ways portrayed as a slender, lithe and wellformed youth, with black hair, dark eyes. high boots and a dirk—dashing envalier sort of a fellow that would brook no insult. The bluff, good-natured, go-easy man of about thirty-five that did the winning has been ignored. Gambling was heavy and all the large cotton and passenger packets had for-ward of the cabin a room about twenty by twenty-dre feet, called the social hall. This hall was fitted up in the most luxurious style, with a bar, chairs and card-tables. At these tables all day and all night the planters, river merchants and officers were wont to tempt fortune. The favorite game was draw-poker; but in those times the gentlemen would bet on any thing, from what kind of a fish a man would each on his line to a steamboat race, and the more a man lost the bigger lion he was. Even now gambling is carried on to a great ex-tent on all rivers, especially on the Red and bollum days were George Brooks and "Bullet-neck" Green, so called from a bullet that was ledged in his neck. The latter gentleman played at and won the biggest game over played on the Mississippi. It was a game of draw poker between himself and three other planters. Green had about $20,000 on board the best, but the other fellows had oversized his pile, and the game was $100 ante, with no limit. Green held a remarkable hand and had staked his last dollar, but no one would "call" him. So, motioning the captain of the vessel to him, he asked for a loan, as he did not want to be run out of the game. To this the cap-tain assented, knowing Green to be a very wealthy man, and he told the clock to let him have any amount. When these prelim-inaties were settled, the players went on raising the stakes until $300,000 was on the board, when one of the players called, and Green deliberately laid his cards face down winning. It is estimated that this man won over $25,000 at cards. The gambler in the days of slavery seldom cheated, and when he did and was discovered at it, he could be found a very few minutes after with a bowie-knife or bullet in him-more likely the former, for then it was a tavorite weapon used with great it was a favorite weapon used with great dexterity, being thrown by experts twenty feet and driven through a mark on a two-inch plank. It was seldem a game was played without every participant having his revolver or bowie on the table, but now the players are on the bunco order, and the ones they swindle less nervy.

HAMBURG HONORED. HAMBURG RONORED.

HAMBURG, Opt. 30.—Emperor William arrived here Monday and assisted in placing a stone to connecencrate the inclusion of the city in the customs union. He was driven to the scene of the festivities in a carriage drawn by four black corses. General von Moltke and Count Egypeert Bismarck Iollowed in a second carriage. rige. The route was througed with peo-ble and the progress was a triumphal one. At intervals along the route children presented the Emperor with flowers. On arriving Dr. Versman ten-dered the thanks of the Scente, the burgomaster and the inhabitants of the city for the Emperor's presence. The Em-peror then took a trowel and mallet, spread norther took a trower and mands, speed the stone, and said: "For God's honor, for the good of the fatheriand and for the welfare of il mburg." After General you Motike, their Peterson and Herr you Bottlicher had made speeches the Emperor steamed through the customs canal and the upper harbor canal to the New Elbe bridge and inspected the forts. Afterward the Emperor was given

New Elbs bridge and inspected the forts.

Afterward the Emperor was given a banquet at the Kunsthalle. In responding to a loast the Emperor said:

"I regard to-days's-festivities as an inheritance derived from my grandfather. Whenever I have occusion to provoed northward to visit the fleet which I love so well, the way leads through your walls. You have referred to my recent journeys, which were undertaken above all other things in the interest of peace and the precention of commerce, of industry, and the welfare of the fatherland. This day is of high importance. The work which has this day been completed forms the first important service to the country rendered by the internal policy under my rule."

The toast was received with three rounds of hearty cheers. THE EVE OF ALL SAINTS.

A Night Devoted to Saints and Cab bage#-

The Janesville smell boy will be in his element to-night. Halloween he takes as the one night in the year hold scored to his uses, and he feels in honor bound to have it properly observed. The important part which cabbage stalks and unhinged gates play in this observance need not be told.

The Janesville small boy is not a lover of mythology. That he is keeping up quetoms and superstitions two thousand years old naver entered his head. The idea that he and his twelve-year-old chum are representing those elves, who, according to our Saxon ancestors, held high carnival at the close of October, when the Sun-god was about to withdraw from the dwellers of earth, would | On motion of Wm., Ruger, the conbe received with that one scorntal comment, "Rats!"
